I am a creative professional specializing in layout, design and development of websites. Based in Northern California, I have been working nationally for over twelve years to create compelling visuals for clients such as Travelocity, Sun Microsystems, Emporio Rulli, Juniper Networks and many more.

My experience covers a full range of creative abilities including; concept development, design and animation, hand-coding and user interface design. With a background in graphics design and computer science, I have the creative vision, technical talent, and passion needed to create powerful user experiences.
